

As the data below show, Hispanics[†] are quickly becoming a population with a national presence. The most dramatic Latino population growth has occurred in "nontraditional" states, and Hispanics are now the largest minority in the country. Given that almost half of Hispanics are under 25 years old, they will constitute a large segment of the future U.S. population, workforce, and electorate.

Tennessee Compared to the Nation

- ▼ Tennessee is the state with the 28th-largest Latino population.¹
- ▼ Between 1990 and 2000, the growth rate of the Latino population in Tennessee ranked fourth in the country.¹
- ▼ Of all states, Tennessee has the 38th-largest share of Latinos when compared to the total state population.¹
