

Know Your Rights When Taking Action! These are Some Basic Rights and Security Precautions for April 10th

- Everyone (documented or undocumented) has the right to advocate peacefully for change.
- Everyone (documented or undocumented) has the right to maintain silent and not answer questions that a government agent may ask you.
- If a government agent or the police ask you something, including your name, immigration status, or where you were born, you do not need to answer. If they are questioning you, you should ask "Am I free to go?"
- If you have immigration papers showing legal status, U.S. law requires you to carry them and show them upon the request of a government agent. If you do not have these papers and are asked for them, you should ask, "Am I free to go?"
- Do not say anything to a reporter that you don't want anyone to know, such as your last name or immigration status.
- There is no guarantee that immigration authorities won't come, or that the police won't approach you, but if everyone remains peaceful, nothing should happen.
- If there are counter-protesters, do not get into fights with them so that you will avoid getting arrested.

¡Conoce Tus Derechos Para La Marcha! Estos Son Derechos Básicos y Precauciones de Seguridad para el día 10 de Abril

- Todos (con papeles o sin papeles) tienen el derecho de abogar pacíficamente para lograr cambios.
- Todos (con papeles o sin papeles) tienen el derecho de quedarse callados, y no contestar a las preguntas que les haga un agente gubernamental.
- Si un agente gubernamental o la policía le pregunta algo como su nombre, estado de inmigración, o donde nació, usted tiene el derecho de no contestar.
- Si le continúan preguntando, debe decir, 'Me puedo ir ya?' (En Ingles, 'Am I free to go?; 'Kean ai gou?')
- No le diga algo a un periodista que no quiere que alguien sepa, como su apellido o estatus de inmigración.
- No se puede garantizar que la migra no venga, o que la policía no se le acerque, pero sí todos se actúen de manera pacífica, nada debería pasar.
- Si se encuentra con contra-manifestantes, mantenga la paz para que no le arresten.
